

Translation Services

To ensure the best possible outcome, people with cancer and their loved ones need to fully understand the disease and its treatment. Yet in our multicultural community, language barriers often get in the way. That is why we provide round-the-clock telephonic translation services for more than 150 languages through CyraCom International.

CyraCom International delivers its services through a highly qualified and culturally sensitive team of professional interpreters using the company's patented telephone technology. CyraCom focuses on all aspects of cross-cultural communications and not just interpretation to ensure the highest level of understanding. If CyraCom does not support the language you need, they will provide contact information for people associated with community associations, consulates, embassies or missions who may be able to help.

Many of our Inova facilities also offer special Spanish language interpreters. Please let any member of your care team know that you need an interpreter.
